1. Introduction

As socialism with Chinese characteristics enters a new era, the Communist Youth League, as a bridge and link between the CPC and the youth, plays an irreplaceable role in promoting the modernization of the national governance system and governance capacity. In recent years, the research on the work of the Communist Youth League has become increasingly in-depth, from the guidance of the CPC building, the construction of organizational power to the work practice of the Communist Youth League in specific fields and regions, all of which have shown a diversified and systematic trend.

The leadership of the CPC building is one of the important features of the work of the Communist Youth League in the new era. Wang Jiaqi pointed out that the leadership of grassroots governance through party building and the organic combination of party building and social work can significantly improve the autonomy of community residents. The research of Chen Xiaozhe and Chen Xiaofeng further emphasized the importance of strengthening and improving the Party's leadership over the work of the Communist Youth League, and put forward countermeasures such as improving ideological understanding and working methods, so as to promote the in-depth development of the work of Party building and league building. Organizational power is one of the core elements of the work of the Communist Youth League[1-3]. The research of Zhang Xiaoting, Wang Yuxing and Du Weiwei discussed the connotation, improvement path and challenges of the organizational power of the Communist Youth League from different angles, and believed that the improvement of the organizational power of the Communist Youth League should start from many aspects, such as consolidating political orientation, enhancing service cohesion, and strengthening organizational mobilization, so as to ensure that the Communist Youth League can closely unite young people and contribute to the cause of the Party and the country. In view of the work practice of the Communist Youth League in specific fields and regions, relevant literature has also been deeply explored. Zhao Qi put forward countermeasures and suggestions on the organizational construction of the Communist Youth League in non-public enterprises in Suqian Chemical Industry Park. Zhang Meng's investigation on the development of the "two new" youth League organization in Shahekou District of Dalian City reveals the existing problems and puts forward suggestions for optimization. These studies, combined with concrete practice, provide targeted guidance and reference for the work of the Communist Youth League in specific fields and regions. At the same time, these studies also reveal the commonalities and differences of the work of the Communist Youth League in different fields and regions, and provide useful references for the comprehensive promotion of the work of the Communist Youth League[4-9]. Under the background of the new era, as an important position for training high-quality technical talents, the importance of party building and league building in higher vocational colleges has become increasingly prominent. Strengthening the Party's leadership over the league organization and promoting the league organization to play an active role in the development of the university has become an important part of the party building work in higher vocational colleges. This paper aims to take Anhui Industry Polytechnic as an example to explore the effective path of CPC building and league building in higher vocational colleges, and provide reference for other higher vocational colleges.

2. The Theoretical Basis and Practical Significance of the CPC building Leading the Communist Youth League Building

2.1. Theoretical basis

The CPC building Leading the Communist Youth League Building is an important theoretical achievement formed by the CPC in the long-term practice of revolution, construction and reform. This theory emphasizes the leadership position of the CPC over youth organizations, requiring them to carry out work around the Party's central tasks under the leadership of the CPC, and cultivate qualified builders and successors for the cause of the CPC and the people.

2.2. Realistic significance

Firstly, strengthening the leadership of the CPC over youth organizations is conducive to ensuring that they move forward in the right direction and cultivate qualified successors for the cause of the CPC and the people. Secondly, The CPC building Leading the Communist Youth League Building helps to enhance the cohesion and combat effectiveness of youth league organizations, and promotes their active role in the development of schools. Finally, The CPC building Leading the Communist Youth League Building also contribute to promoting the comprehensive development of young students, improving their political quality and professional abilities.

3. Analysis of the working path of the Communist Youth League under the leadership of the CPC building--Anhui Industry Polytechnic

3.1. Strengthen the CPC's leadership and political guidance, and further enhance the pertinence of the Communist Youth League's ideological and political guidance.

Further carry out the "Youth learning" action, strengthen the construction of the propaganda position of the league, promote the normalization and institutionalization of the political learning of all the youth members, further promote the weekly "Youth learning" online theme group class learning, and expand the coverage of learning. Deepen the training of league cadres and continue to carry out demonstration activities led by youth role models. Persistently armed the youth members of the college with the latest achievements of Marxism localization in China, recommended the backbone of the college to participate in the provincial and municipal Qingma Project, organized the college student cadre training conference, constantly improved the ideological and political quality of young students, gave play to the leading role of various youth role models, and actively carried out the activities of striving for excellence inside and outside the school.

3.2. Strengthen the linkage between the CPC and the Communist Youth League, and further enhance the ability of the Communist Youth League to serve young people

We will further expand volunteer services and carry out social practice activities. Focusing on the actual needs, a series of voluntary service activities were carried out according to local conditions. We have carried out various types of voluntary service activities, such as civilized persuasion, old clothes recycling, unpaid blood donation, respecting the elderly, civilized cycling, etc. Adhering to the method of combining team centralized practice and individual decentralized practice, in accordance with the principle of "setting items according to needs, organizing groups according to items, and benefiting both ways", the college has established a registration system for the community youth home of the college league branch, taking the cold and summer vacation as an opportunity to organize returning college students to report to the community (village). Focus on the activities of "I do practical things for students", improve the working mechanism for safeguarding students' rights and interests, focus on helping students alleviate practical difficulties and problems encountered in study and life, pay attention to students' universal interest demands, and improve the organizational channels and mechanisms for safeguarding students' rights and interests. Pay attention to the life rights and interests department of the college and department students' Union, and the role of the class rights and interests committee, timely collect and listen to the problems involving the immediate interests and common demands of the majority of students, and timely follow up to promote the solution of the problems.

3.3. Cultivate people around virtue and give full play to the cultural education function of the Communist Youth League

Building a high-quality campus culture, we have actively promoted the activities of academic atmosphere cultivation, integrated campus cultural resources, and centered on improving students' overall quality, aiming for "branding" and "specialization" as our goals. We have relied on the student associations of each department and college, as well as the 19 student art, sports, and cultural clubs, to innovate the content and organization of some traditional cultural project activities, creating a healthy and upward-oriented environment for education. We have optimized the second-classroom education system to serve the growth and development of students, taking the reform of the college's comprehensive evaluation system for talent cultivation as an opportunity, and grasping the "second-classroom achievement record system" of the Communist Youth League as a lever. We have strengthened the connotation of the second-classroom, relying on the "Dream Space" management system, further strengthening the organization, management, and certification work of the Youth League organization for the second-classroom, strengthening the training and guidance of platform managers and publishers, strengthening the analysis and use of platform data, strengthening the process management, and continuously enhancing the scientific operation and management of the second-classroom, so as to fully play its important role in the college's talent cultivation process.

4. Conclusion

Anhui Industry Polytechnic has achieved remarkable results in Party-building-led youth work. This paper analyzes and studies in depth the path of Party-building-led youth work at Anhui

Industrial Technical College, concluding that strengthening the Party's leadership over youth organizations is the key to the smooth development of youth work in higher vocational colleges. At the same time, standardizing the construction of youth organizations, innovating youth work models, and enhancing Party-led youth work are also effective ways to improve the quality and level of youth work in higher vocational colleges. In the future, higher vocational colleges should continue to deepen their research and practice of Party-building-led youth work, constantly exploring youth work models that conform to the characteristics of the times and the needs of students, and making greater contributions to the development of the school's cause and the growth and development of young students.
